Acrowire Roadshow to Focus on SharePoint 2013 for Law Firms

Company's founder and president to lead educational series of seminars co-hosted by the International Legal Technology Association

Charlotte, N.C. (April 3, 2014) – Acrowire, a strategic business and legal technology consulting company, today announced its schedule of upcoming educational seminars for legal IT professionals. The 10-city series, which has been created for the International Legal Technology Association (ILTA), will discuss SharePoint 2013 in the legal industry.

Ted Theodoropoulos, founder and president of Acrowire, will lead the ILTA roadshow presentations.

Since its introduction in 2001, SharePoint has become one of the most prevalent software solutions in the legal space. The release of SharePoint 2013 offers substantial new features such as enterprise search, moving to the cloud and a customizable app model - all significant improvements that can positively impact a legal IT department's performance.

The presentation titled "SharePoint 2013: What's New for Legal?" will address:

- New capabilities in SharePoint 2013 such as enhanced searching capabilities and collaboration as well as new ways to visualize and create workflows
- Top reasons for - and warnings about - moving SharePoint to the cloud
- How to reduce risk and administration in SharePoint and its applications
- Talent and tools needed to undertake application development for SharePoint
- A demonstration of a successful SharePoint legal app

Scheduled cities and dates include:

Date	City
April 8	Charlotte, NC
April 9	Raleigh, NC
April 10	Columbia, SC
April 15	Pittsburgh, PA
June 3	Washington, DC
June 4	Richmond, VA
September 9	Atlanta, GA
October 7	Philadelphia, PA
October 8	New York, NY
October 9	Boston, MA

All legal IT professionals - whether they are ILTA members or not - are invited to attend. Lunch will be served at this complimentary event. To register for these events or to learn more, visit http://acrowire.com/welcome/ilta/.

About the Presenter

As Acrowire's founder and president, Ted Theodoropoulos combines his interest in technology with his passion to improve the business productivity of entrepreneurs and corporations. Theodoropoulos's background in technology began in the early 1980s as he developed applications in BASIC on the first personal computers. As a Senior Vice President at Bank of America, Theodoropoulos held a number of leadership roles in the areas of corporate audits, consumer risk management and global anti-money laundering initiatives. He integrated Six Sigma methodologies into his technology work, earning DFSS Green and Black Belt certifications. His Green Belt work led to a U.S. patent for which he was recognized with the 2007 Best of Six Sigma Award. Prior to joining Bank of America, Theodoropoulos was a product specialist at Microsoft providing guidance and support on database technologies where he became a Microsoft Certified Professional and a Certified Scrum Master.

He has a Bachelor of Science in mathematics from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill and a master's in business administration from the Belk College of Business at the University of North Carolina at Charlotte.
