Acrowire and Prosperoware Create Partnership to Deliver

New Value to the Legal Market

Charlotte, N.C. (October 1, 2015) – Acrowire, a strategic business and legal technology consulting firm specializing in the development and design of SharePoint portals, and Prosperoware, an enterprise software company that connects the practice and the business of legal and professional services, have announced its partnership today.

"Acrowire is excited to partner with Prosperoware to give our law firm clients an out-of-the-box solution for iManage and SharePoint integrations that doesn't require a user's manual intervention," states Ted Theodoropoulos, president of Acrowire.

Law firms and other organizations – such as in-house legal departments – that use iManage as their primary content repository often want to share this content on their intranets or extranets, which are typically based on SharePoint. Prosperoware's Ascera platform synchronizes content between iManage and SharePoint, including documents, folders and workspaces on both intranets and extranets.

Prosperoware has 259 customers, which include 49 percent of the Am Law 100 firms and 33 percent of the Am Law 200 firms. In addition to the adoption of their software in law firms, Prosperoware has gained traction in a variety of professional services, including accounting departments, in-house legal departments and consulting firms, which have similar challenges.

Acrowire has established a deep footprint in the legal industry with dozens of Am Law and NLJ clients through its dedicated SharePoint practice, excelling in the development, implementation, migration and branding of SharePoint portals, and custom application development solutions.

With this partnership, law firms now have the ability to access content-rich attorney dashboards for improved productivity. The bundled software and services solution from the two companies delivers ease, legal expertise and unique business value for the legal industry.
