International Legal Technology Association Selects Acowire for New and Improved SharePoint Portal Design

Charlotte, N.C. (July 23, 2015) – Acowire, a legal technology and business consulting firm, has been hired by the International Legal Technology Association (ILTA) to design and develop their new SharePoint Online environment which will significantly improve user experience to staff, volunteers and its 19,000+ members.

ILTA's current SharePoint 2010 portal fosters a collaborative environment that delivers their IDEA database, Speaker Expertise resource and other popular ILTA community destinations through the use of SharePoint Team Sites. Acowire has been engaged to upgrade this current environment to SharePoint Online and re-architect necessary Team Sites, workflows, site collateral, calendars, reporting/dashboards and search, etc., as well as implement Single Sign-On to further enhance user experience.

"We are extremely excited to be working with Acowire as they have been leading the way in SharePoint development and design within the legal community. We look forward to offering our members and volunteers a new user experience with many of the enhanced features the SharePoint Online offers," states Peggy Wechsler, ILTA's Program Director.

"Expanding our relationship with ILTA through our SharePoint Development and Design services is an honor and testament to the value ILTA places on legal-focused vendors. I am eager to showcase the talent on my team and be a part of ILTA's new and improved portal experience. We take a lot of pride in being a trusted advisor to both ILTA and its members," comments Ted Theodoropoulos, president of Acowire.

The project is scheduled to begin this month with an anticipated reveal of new features and functionality in early fall.
